1. Llanddona Beach Car Park to Bwrdd Arthur (Arthur's Table)

From the beach car park cross the road towards the sea, turn right and walk along the beach. At the end there is a wooden footbridge over a stream follow the Coastal Path sign over the bridge along the edge of the beach and up the steps to a kissing gate. Walk along the left hedge through two fields to the next kissing gate following the grassy path, uphill, towards two houses and another kissing gate. Continue bearing right up hill and through the kissing gate by a telegraph pole.

Following the Coastal Path sign turn right up the track heading inland, at the corner where the track bears right, turn left following the Coastal Path sign through a kissing gate and follow the path through fields uphill into the National Trust area, Bryn Offa. After approximately 45 metres turn right off the track at the waymarker, following the path uphill through gorse and over a stile. Continue keeping fence on the left hand side over two ladder stiles and follow the track. After approximately 180 metres and before reaching a metal barn the track opens up on the right side, follow the path bearing right and back off the Isle of Anglesey Coastal Path heading towards the Wireless Mast along the footpath between gorse skirting the right of Bwrdd Arthur to a metal stile.

It is worth making a short diversion to the left up to the top of Bwrdd Arthur returning by the same route.

2. Bwrdd Arthur – Pen Rallt
